

W

GLOBAL HEALTH TUESDAY

FROM INSPIRATION TO ACTION: GLOBAL HEALTH TEACHING AND LEARNING IN THE 21ST CENTURY

with Lori DiPrete Brown, MSPH, MTS,
GHI Associate Director for Education and Engagement

Lori DiPrete Brown will examine how global health education and practice have changed in the past decade. She will engage faculty and students with central questions in the field: How is the concept of global health evolving to embrace sectors beyond health and planetary health? How can we make the local to global connection in our work? How is UW-Madison playing a leading role in transforming global health education? DiPrete Brown is the lead author and editor of the recently published textbook "Foundations for Global Health Practice."

LEARN MORE: ghi.wisc.edu

TUESDAY
OCTOBER 30, 2018

5:00 p.m.

Health Sciences Learning Center
Room 1345

Global Health Institute
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON